

MEIN KAMPF

The book is an autobiography and the political manifesto of one of the greatest origins of a deadly massacre whose name has been written down in history with blood, the one whose name symbolizes dictatorship, Adolf Hitler. As the title says Mein Kampf, My Struggle, it was written in the darkness of the prison of Landsberg where all of his ideas, thinking, experiences and his story of how he and Germany had suffered in the war came into writing. It was all of his deviant mindset, his views which he bombarded on the pages of the volume which isn't just work but the Bible of the Nazi ideology.

The most fascinating fact about the book remains that it was a lucid warning of what was to come as destiny and what we consider as history, one of the darkest ones one could ever imagine but still foreseeable, it was merely required to have requisite attention by the premiers. He puts in nightmarish coherence of the racial theories prevalent at the time, he was rigid and strongly believed in his veracity to be right, he pronounced the German race as pure and worthy to grow and prosper, and coined Jews as a parasite to them. In the words of Hitler, he explains how Juden as he mentioned the Jews, was solely responsible for the defeat of Germany in the pivotal war, he considered them parasites which will destroy every race who provides them with shelter, he even mentions that they are behind a conspiracy to destroy the Germans. He puts "The Aryans" or "The Germans" on the peak of his imaginary mountain of races battling to protect their purity from that of "The Jews" who were expressed as a community of Scourge. He pleads the pure Germans to settle in the East so that their purity remains resolute and he considered that any mixing of it with the other races leads to further weakening of it. According to his ideology, in nature a lion only mates with a lioness, a tiger to a tigress, and a mouse to a doe, it is what is fixed by the nature and the same applies to humans, one who tries to have a deviancy from it creates the worst of the horizon and leads to corruption of the specie and the corruption leads to the elimination of the purity of it and eventually extinction. His every idea was centered around Charles Darwin's concept of survival of the fittest and whom he considered the fittest were the pure Aryan race.

The mentions of approaches to effective propaganda bring to light that it was his aim to get in the people's mind his rationale of stratifying the men and degrading the community of Jews by propagating the idea of their guise which conceal the devil. He emphasized that it is the unity of the country that will pave the way for the success which he and Germany desired, recapturing the lost land, gaining resources, and everything which manifests the way of war as the prerequisite, he signifies his plans explicitly by quoting that the consequence would justify the sacrifice of their children.

He strongly complains about the deficient education system which produces walking encyclopedias, he talks about how the system cannot produce strong and loyalist men who could die for Germany and so wanted to change and get in the minds of children devotion towards Germany and him being their idol of a prudent man. Also, he symbolizes France as a country of Negroes (a country of Jews) the mortal, merciless enemy of Germany, and states that there can only be one winner between the racially pure German and the Jews. It legitimizes an idea of revenge against France, a military one to procure its territories as he considered them to be behind the conspiracy of weakening the German race and their country. His other mission was to modify the Treaty of Versailles, signed after the defeat of Germany in the immense war, which he considered to be the greatest dejection of the Germans' loss in the war and a portrayal of its surrender towards the terms of its loss, an Achilles heel to the German foreign policy. It is a must read as it was something which should have been treated as a lucid warning, ignorance of which caused a huge loss to mankind. It was one book that helped the deviants to propagate their beliefs and ideas towards the happenings and reality of beings. One must remember it is just a mere idea that leads mankind to either a luminous blooming future or a dark degenerating one and one must know what to choose between the two.
